

ABSENT

Biography

Yann Van Uffelen aka Absent was born on sept. 27 1985 in Antwerp, Belgium. With African blood running through his veins he had an early passion for rhythm and melody. As a young kid he was already playing beats on pots and pans in the kitchen while his mother was cooking.

His real musical journey started when his dad introduced him to vinyl, having an extensive record collection ranging from early Jazz to Classical to Rhythm and Blues... At the age of 15 he attended his first Techno event and from there on he developed a deeper taste for the genre while he was digging in the crates. It became a true passion as he began to discover and understand Electronic music.

He started to dj as Absent and soon got a name in his hometown. Developing his own style by combining hard rhythmic Techno and deeper minimalistic abstract music, that makes the body and spirit move. This all combined into an underground club sound. Rhythm is all...

As a producer Absent soon learned the tricks of the trade. In 2010 his first tracks got released by PBR music (France) and are still available on itunes and other digital distributors. After that he got in touch with Diego Hostettler (former Kanzleramt artist) who took his production to a new level. It captured dj's and the public alike and resulted in a few collabos and the playfully titled "She's Not Worth It" Ep that has been released on Alexander Kowalski's Damage Label Berlin and has been played by artists like Carl Cox, Richie Hawtin, Joris Voorn and many more.

Absent's sound runs the gamut from exuberantly bright to emotionally deep and dark Rhythmic Technomusic.

Absent is an amazing artist who will rock your crowd with his amazing sound. Get ready to dance!
